Clinician-Educator Position in Laboratory Medicine at Yale.

The Department of Laboratory Medicine at the Yale University School of Medicine seeks a physician with broad Clinical Pathology expertise for a full-time ladder faculty position in the Department as a physician at both the Yale New Haven Hospital and the VA Connecticut Healthcare System. The successful candidate would be expected to spend the majority of their time in clinical endeavors; educational and scholarly responsibilities are also an important part of the position. Interest in Hematology and Transfusion Medicine is especially sought but those with interests in all subdisciplines should consider applying. Candidates should be MDs or MD/PhDs who are Board certified/eligible in Clinical Pathology; formal subspecialty training in a laboratory medicine subdiscipline is especially welcome but is not required. Rank is dependent on the successful candidate's qualifications.

Yale School of Medicine, the sixth-oldest medical school in the United States, is one of the world's leading centers for biomedical research, advanced clinical care and medical education. Yale New Haven Hospital is a 1,519-bed tertiary referral center, which includes the 200-bed Yale New Haven Children's Hospital, the 76-bed Yale New Haven Psychiatric Hospital and the 128-bed Smilow Cancer Hospital. It is the flagship member of the Yale New Haven Health System. VA Connecticut Healthcare Systems West Haven campus is a tertiary-care facility located approximately four miles from the main Yale campus. It provides comprehensive inpatient and outpatient care across Connecticut; its medical research program is the second largest in the VA system.
