

University of Virginia Department of Pathology

Hematopathology

The Department of Pathology at the University of Virginia School of Medicine announces a tenure track faculty position for a physician scientist in the area of Hematopathology. Responsibilities include maintaining an independently-supported, nationally-recognized research program, participation in the clinical diagnostic service, and providing mentorship in our graduate and residency programs. Rank will be commensurate with prior accomplishments. For qualified candidates, an endowed Chair will be available. Individuals of particular interest will have a track-record of research productivity and the potential to interact with programs in leukemia and hematopoiesis within the Cancer Center. Dedicated resources will be provided to promote a successful transition, and the University of Virginia provides a vibrant, interactive research environment.

Candidates must have M.D. or M.D./Ph.D., be board certified in Hematopathology, and be eligible to practice medicine in Virginia.

To apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu> and search on Posting 0622912 or visit: <https://jobs.virginia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=84162>. Complete a Candidate Profile online; attach curriculum vitae, cover letter, and contact information for three references. The position will remain open until filled.

For further information about the position, please contact Adam N. Goldfarb, MD, via email at ang3x@virginia.edu.

For questions regarding the application process, please contact Mary White via email at mjw2n@virginia.edu or telephone at 434-924-9712.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.